Upcoming July Events

July 11, 2007 - Tools for Today and Tomorrow

Tools for Today and Tomorrow Workshop: "Siblings of Children with Special Needs: Unique Concerns, Unique Opportunities." Siblings of children with special needs have special needs too. Join our hospital and community-based professionals and other parents on Wednesday, July 11, 2007, at Ursuline Educational Center, Merici Conference Room, 2600 Lander Road, Pepper Pike 44124 for an informative evening.

Topics and discussion will cover the many overwhelming concerns that siblings of children with special needs often experience, such as resentment, guilt, peer issues, loss, and apprehension about the future; the often overlooked unique opportunities siblings have to learn about compassion, patience, advocacy, insight and tolerance; how to help siblings deal with their very real concerns and assist them to maximize their experiences for the positive; and helpful resources.

Advanced registration is required so that we may have sufficient materials for workshop participants. $10 is payable at the door (scholarships are available). Contact Linda Kresnye, Program Manager, Tools for Today and Tomorrow, 216-229-5757, Ext. 126 or lresnye@clevelandrmh.org.
